PINIONS OF THE PRESS.

"THE ECHO."—This is the title of a new evening journal, is used from the Hunald office in Sydney "for the propristors." There is a material difference in the arrangement of the news matter, do., compared with other newspapers. The American plan of some journals has been a lower of the news matter, do., compared with other newspapers. The American plan of some journals has been a lower of the first page—and it is far to say that they are carefully written and liberal in character;—then "notes of the day," which are readable and charity continents on current events, and then news items. These least and all the other contents of the paper, with three sameotions, are reprints of matter which has appears in the Hinald, restored carefully, so me to give as much variety, as possible. The first excoption is the rank of the pressible of most proposition in the rank of the same papears in the Reven before going into the large radily, the second a species of serial story, smittled "The Charlessian of an Australian Delective," and the third; he victore list at Royal Hotel, Petty's, Pfahler's, and Albion House. There are one or two other specialities, and the new paper forms an eminently respectable panny's wurth.—MAITLAND Mancury.

The Ecro is really a step in advance. It has eight pages of point; it is a risco of good workmanship, and has some people about it who can write—who have seed only talent, but fact, and less, though not least in a mechandical aspect, it only costs ld. It is capitally made up of original matter, and spect of the passing incidents of the flay; and where the scheous are considered a mechanic, they ally the very best of antroats. Then it has what he never bear foundly given helows in Sydney, viv.,—the Royal, Petty and Pethler's. It gives us also a tabulated list of this way is bids fair for popularity and circulation.—BATHURET HERS.

OUR MELBOURNE LETTER.

Monday, May 17.

There is a little excitement in political circles over the election for Ararat, which comes off on Wednesday, as we have not had a vacancy for some time in the Assembly. There are four candidates who have complied with the requirements of the Electoral Act, and been duly nominated, two of them being local non, and two Melbourne men. One of the Melbourne men is to have the Catholic vote, and if the other three candidates persist in going to the poll, it is likely that the priests will be able to scarce the return of their candidate. The whole contest is indicative of the disorganization amongst political parties. While the Catholics are endeavouring to ignore everything but the one question of the Education Act, there is no counter organization to uphold it. Some active members of the free trade party are and avouring to copy the Catholics by making free trade the test question, and are throwing all their energies into the centest in favour of one man because he is a prenounced free-trader. As, however, the two candidates who have neither the Catholics nor the free-traders to rely upon, have other strong claims upon the constituency—one other strong claims upon the constituency—one MONDAY, MAY 17. however, the two sandidates who have neither the Catholica nor the free-traders to rely upon, have other strong claims upon the constituency—one of them as their former representative, and the other as a resident of good standing, they will so divide the votes that it is impossible, at present, to name the winner. It is very provoking, no doubt, from an Opposition point of view, that the Ministry won't do something corrupt, for which they might be sent to the right-about in a summary way when Parliament meets; but although they persistently refuse to oblige their critics with a real ground of accusation, the latter are not slow to invent one. Your readers have heard of the now famous prospectus of the Beechworth Gold Mining Company, which was recently published in London, with the names of the Prenier and Minister of Works amongst the promoters, their official titles being which was recently published in London, with the names of the Prenaier and Minister of Works amongst the premoters, their official titles being given in full. This apparent impropriety, as it is generally regarded, has been severely commented upon by several journals, but we have not yet beard the explanations of these gentlement if they think it worth while to give any explanation. Incidental to this charge, however, semebody opposed to the Ministry made the discovery that a gross job had been perpetated by the purchase from one of the companies, in which Mess a Kerferd and Anderson were supposed to be interested, of a large quantity of tailings for railway ballast at a price about three times higher than had been paid by the contractors for a portion of the same tailings; in short, that the Government had paid a thousand pounds to a company, in which two members of the Ministry were partners, for what should have been obtained for three hundred. The story had been well got up, and read so plausibly that it "lied like truth." The quichnines read it, and retailed it with avidity, and there was quite a flutter in Opposition circles. The Premier, however, and the Commissioner of Public Works smiled as placidly as usual, and were evidently rather enjoying the excitement of their opponents. They were not, however, to be allowed the pleasure of exploding the bubble in Parliament, for the parties to the transaction rushed into prist and performed that little operation for them. It then turned out that the Opposition had discovered a mare's nest. The company selling the tailings was one in which neither of the Ministers had the slightest interest, while the price paid was a very advantageous one for the Railway Department, was one in which neither of the Ministers had the slightest interest, while the price paid was a very advantageous one for the Railway Department, although the company had, before they discovered the value of the tailings for railway ballast, sold a parcel at a lower figure. The Commissioner of Railways had, in fact, resorted to a little finessing to get at this ballast, acting on the advice of the engineer of the railway. It is really too bad of these Ministers not to be dishonest.

Our agricultural statistics for the past season have been published and have rather disappointed the prophets. Some of our journals make a speciality of the question of agricultural produc speciality of the question of agricultural produc-tion, and begin pretty early in the season to give predictions of the quantity of wheat and other cereals which may be expected to be brought to market. In February, March, and April we had figures published from time to time, based upon the information which was being obtained from various parts of the country, and from the obser-vations of travellers interested in the grain trade. various parts of the country, and from the observations of travellers interested in the grain trade. In one instance we had the confident assertion with regard to wheat, that not less than half-a-million bushels in excess of our requirements would be produced, and that the average production night be put at nearly seventeen bushels to the acre. In a later and more carefully prepared statement, published after all the information obtainable by private means had been collected, the following figures were given: Area under wheat 387,000 acres; average yield. 16 bushels; total yield, 5,872,000 bushels, which at the usual allowance per head of the population, and for seed, would have left us a surplus of nearly 400,000 bushels. The figures of the Registrar-General, however, would appear to dissipate these hopes. He gives us as the area under wheat, 332,935 acres, average yield only 14'6 bushels to the acre, and total yield 4,850,135 bushels, which according to the usual computation of the requirements of our population will leave a deficiency of 383,600 bushels. These returns are by no means satisfactory, for if we had not been favoured with a good season it is evident that our supply would have fallen far short of our home consumption, notwithstanding the extensive alienation of Crown lands under the existing Land Act which has been going on for the last four or five years. From these returns, however, as is the case always with similar figures, very different deductions are made by those who take opposite views of our land laws. The Age, which is the advocate of free selection and the defender of the present system, can see in these returns the steady progress of sattlement and an extension of unlivation in the newer districts, which gives proof cultivation in the newer districts, which gives proof opposite views of our and naws. The appropriate is the advocate of free selection and the defender of the present system, can see in these returns the steady progress of sattlement and an extension of cultivation in the newer districts, which gives proof that the selectors under the present Act are really cultivating the land they take up; while the Argus says that if the figures prove anything, it is that the whole of our recent land legislation has been one grand mistake, and that the State has been robbed of millions sterling.

The invasion of New South Wales territory by a railway company essentially Victorian, will soon be a recognised fact. The Moama and Deniliquin railway is very shortly to be commenced. The contractors who built the line from Sandhurst to Echuca are prepared to carry it on to Deniliquin (for as soon as the bridge over the Murray is built, the Deniliquin railway will be nothing more nor less than an extension of the Victorian railways into Riverina). Messrs. Collier, Fraser, and Barry are the gentlemen who were in negotiation with the Queensland Government for the execution of that grand undertaking which was to connect the cities of the north-east with the Gulf of Carpentaria by the iron rail. That magnificent project, however, having ouitapsed, they are now indulging in a less ambitious flight, unless indeed this can be considered as the southern end of some other future extension into the far North. southern end of some other future extension into the far North.

southern end of some other future extension into the far North.

"Funeral Reform" is one of the matters which have lately occupied public attention. The movement in Adelaide has had a considerable effect in stimulating Melbourne people to follow in the same direction, and the example of Sydney is now urged in favour of giving a particular direction to the changes advocated. I referespecially to a proposal for the establishment of cemeteries at a distance of fifteen or twenty miles from Melbourne by railway. We are told that in Sydney funeral trains start at given hours every day, and that the fares are very low, the bodies being conveyed free. This system would undoubtedly aid in reducing the undertakers' bills, and would necessarily put an end to those lengthy processions of friends and acquaintances in the rear of the beplumed vehicles containing the poor remains of mortality which have been imported into these colonies from Ireland and Scotland. In any movement of a public character like this, there are always enterprising men who are desirous of rushing in to supply the new wants supposed to be created by it, and hence some of our company mengers have already their schemes cut and dried for county cometeries and funeral appointments. The genuine reformers, however, are seeking the co-operation of the Governmen, but, for the present at all events, are eschewing are seeking the co-operation of the Governmen, but, for the present at all events, are eschewing the services of speculative companies.

The Church of England Messenger for the current menth expresses its astonishment at the questions put by the Rev. Canon King to the Bishop of Sydney, at the recent meeting of the Sydney Synde, which it regards, as everybody else must have done, as "an arraignment of the Bishop, clergy, and laity of the diocese of Malbourne." The Messenger "cannot but regret such charges "without sufficient grounds for so grave and unprecedented a procedure." and it then gives a history of this diocese, and of the Church Constitution Act, of the efforts which have been made during the past ten years to divide the see of Melbourne, by constituting the diocese of Ballarat, and of the proceedings of the conference in Sydney, as well as of the two Acts passed by our Church Assembly to which Canon King takes exception. I travelled over nearly the same ground in my letter a fortnight ago, so that it is unnecessary to quote the Messenger. I did not, however, attempt to deal with the objection entertained in Sydney to the constituting the diocese of Melbourne a province and the appoint.

it is unnecessary to quote the Messenger. I did not, however, attempt to deal with the objection entertained in Sydney to the constituting the diocess of Melbeurne a province, and the appointment of the Bishop of Melbeurne the metropolitan thereof. Upon that part of the controversy the Messenger says:—

"The point involved in this, which seems to have caused anxiety in the mind of the Rev. Canon King, is its assumed inconsistency with the subordination of the bishops of the province to the Bishop of Sydney as instropolitan. We do not believe that it affects it in the smallest degree. We senothing in the performance of the duties of metropolitan in the province of Melbourne, as specified in our Church Constitution and subjection" of the ree to the Bishop of Sydney as Metropolitan of Australia; and, indeed, the 19th claus of the Church Constitution Act seems to make special provision for the preservation thereof, notwith standing the formation of the diocese into a province. Bethis as it may, if the Act passed by the Church Assembly for the constitution of the province does, in fact, interfery with the relation of bishops in Victoria, No. 54, which will remain inoperative until it receives from the Metropolitan, it will remain inoperative until it receives from the Metropolitan his express sanction in accordance with the provision of the 5th clause of the Church Cenatitation Act This Act, and the emplemental Act of 36 Victoria, No. 54, which it is proviled shall be taken as part thereof, would have been binding on the Bishop of Ballarat without express legislation, but our Church Assembly, nevertheless, in passing the Act for the constitution of the Bishop of Ballarat, imposed on the bishop the obbligation of columnly declaring, at his installation, his acceptation of the province of Melbourne was heaved?

It appears that the Act for the constitution of the province of Melbourne was heaved?

It appears that the Act for the constitution of the province of Melbourne was brought into our Church Assembly by a private member on his own responsibility, and the Church organ from own responsionity, and the Church organ from which I have been quoting disclaims any intention either on the part of the prometer of the bill or of the Assembly to affect by its provisions in the smallest degree the position of the Bishop of Sydney as metropolitan or as primate.

Sydney as metropolitan or as primate.

The magnificent proportions of some of our city and suburban broweries, to say nothing of those in our provincial towns, testify to the great increase which has of late years been going on in the consumption of colonial beer notwithstanding a strong antipathy to it amongst the upper circles. This feeling on the part of the last named chase form devices in a few metals and of the second expressions. circles. This teeling on the part of the last named class found expression a few weeks ago at an inquest, when the ceroner volunteered a remark about colonial beer which amounted to a con-demnation of its use, for he characterised it as one of the worst of poisons when taken to excess, and his remarks implied that it was largely adul-terated. The coroner was not perhaps conscious of the good or ill that might come of such an openly expressed on the second of a public terated. The coroner was not perhaps conscious of the good or ill that might come of such an openly expressed opinion on the part of a public official, and especially from a medical officer of high repute. The remarks, however, furnished all the journals with material for leaders for some time afterwards; and voluntary correspondents either for or against the wholesomeness of colonial beer and in condemnation or defence of brewers or publicans, rushed the columns of our metropolitan and provincial Press. The Govern ment were also aroused to action, and (in pursuance of instructions) the police, in disguise, made a raid upon the city publicans, and, by a stratagem which I explained to your readers at the time, obtained samples of beer and liquors sold at most of the public-houses in and round the city as well as at two or three of the large towns. In this way, some seven hundred samples of colonial beer were obtained from public houses, and the excise officers obtained simultaneously from the breweries about fifty bulk samples. These were distributed between four of our best analytical chemists, who have since been operating upon them while the consumers of colonial alc have been rather impatiently waiting to know whether they were really being poisoned or not. The charges levelled against the brewers and publicans by some portions of the Press were of a very have been rather impatiently waiting to know whether they were really being poisoned or not. The charges levelled against the brewers and pub-licans by some portions of the Press were of a very grave character. It was asserted that the brewers dectored their beer with such villainous ingre-dients as green vitriol, thorn apple seeds, seeds of paradise, cocculus, and similar drugs. The result of the examination, however, as given by the Government analytical chemist, amounts to a compilete expueration of the brewers.

result of the examination, however, as given by the Government analytical chemist, amounts to a complete exoneration of the brewers. The plan adopted by the analysts was that which the Government chemist always uses in searching for poisons in medico-legal inquiries, and he says that "no deleterious substances have been wilfully added in any case." Nine of the samples obtained from the brewers contained fusil oil of very offensive description, sufficient, though in very small proportions, to impart a disagreeable odour and taste to the beers. Common salt, he says, has been added in some instances rather freely, evidently for the purpose of increasing rather than allaying the thirst of the topers. The imperfections in most colonial beers are referred to three causes, viz.—large use of sugar instead of mult, deficiency in quantity or quality of hops, and high temperature of fermentation; and when all these conditions meet in the same sample a disastrous and deleterious product is in mait, deficiency in quantity or quality of hops, and high temperature of fermentation; and when all these conditions meet in the same sample a disastrous and deleterious product is inevitable. The publicans come out of the ordeal as well as the brewers. There is no getting over the fact that plugs of tobacco or their remains are found in barrels, but as cases occur in which slabs rather than plugs of tobacco have been found naised to the inside of the cask, it is evident that this could only have been done at the brewery. Brewers and publicans must therefore divide the blame so far as the tobacco adulteration is concerned. It is stated, however, by the Government analyst, that there are fewer of the inferior samples of beer found in the general publicans' cellars than in the brewers, so that these very inferior beers must go to shantiss and low houses from which samples were not obtained. It is satisfactory also to know that beer equal in quality to any imported ale can be and is brewed in Victoria, although these very good samples are the exception. Another of the experts says that he found as the result of his examination that 44 per cent. were good sound wholesome ales, that 30 per cent. inferior, and in some cases quite until to drink. Summing up the whole of the reports, the general result appears to be that sugar is used too freely instead of malt, that hops are used too sparingly, that the fermentation is conducted sometimes under improper conditions, that flavouring matters such as quassia, coriander, &c., are used, but that they are not injurious, while such baneful ingredients as cocculus indicus are only just traceable; that beer drinkers often increase instead of allaying their thirst through such a vulgar imposition as salting the liquor, but that if you can only get the best quality ales you may as safely drink them as those which are imported. These would be the fair deductions from the professional reports, but nevertheless the doctors still shake their heads and tell you that—the analysts not w

In this case, which was heard on Wednasday, his Honor gave a verdict for plaintiff for £30, the amount claimed.

MARLY ROW.

In this case, heard some weeks ago, his Honor gave verdict for the amount claimed.

MARLY, SOLOMONS.

The hearing of this case, which was begun on Wednasday, was concluded. Plaintiff sued defendant for £40, the belance of an account for goods sold and delivered. The defence was that there had been settlement of the delt by a signment, plaintiff secoling a dividend of £18 out of his debt of £68, in the same proportion as other creditors. Plaintiff, it appeared, afterwards had dealings with defendant, and alleged that he gave defendant £100 worth of goods on credit on condition that he would pay the £40, the balance of the old debt. In cross-stanination, plaintiff semisted that he in Movember last sued defendant for £35 des, for goods supplied between August and Out-ber that year, after the sensymment; but appleined that he him. Seefadant swore that he never agreed to pay plaintiff the £40 that he owed him before the assignment; and that plaintiff was anxious afterwards that he should take the goods, as he (defendant) was likely to do a rosting trade with them. Diefendant swore that he never agreed to pay plaintiff the £40 that he owed him before the assignment; and that plaintiff was anxious afterwards that he should take the goods, as he (defendant) was likely to do a rosting trade with them. The evidence was vary contradictory. Verdict for plaintiff for the amount claimed. Wr. Windeyer, instructed by Mr. Gamon, appeared for the he plaintiff; Sir J. G. L. innes, instructed by Mr. Rivans, for defendants.

In this case the plaintiff was defendants for £35 for damages sustained by him through defendants to £35 for damages sustained by him through defendants to £35 for damages sustained by him through defendant is horse and cost on the first of the same and the hermost was beene with a cast botting towards as tached to the milk-carr out to him as his cast was standed when

This was a claim for £6 16c 2d., alleged to be due by defendant under these circumstance: — Defendant executed a morrgage of his property to Mr. Rundle, and then sold his equity of redemption to the plaintiff, staing at the time that the interest due to the morrgages had been puid. The plaintiff however had to pay to the morrgages a quarter's interest, and also interest upon this quarter's interest, and also interest upon this quarter's interest, and he now such plaintiff for the smount. The defendant swore positively that he had paid the quarter's interest the mortgage's solicitors, and produced a receipt in proof of his statement. The receipt was received by one of the solicitors on behalf of the mortgages, but the mortgages dealed that the solicitor had authority to receive money on his account; and he sealed that he had never been paid the money by the solicitor. His Honer gave a verdict for £6 2c. 6d. being the amount of the claim, leas the interest upon the quarter's interest, the mortgage deed not being produced to show whether this could be legally elsimed. Mr. Want instructed by Mr. Reed, appeared for the plaintiff; Mr. C. Jones for the defendant.

Landba ACT AMENDMENT BILL.

On the motion of Mr. GARRETT, the Bones wint into committee for the further consideration of this bill.

Clance 18 was proposed as follows:—"Any conditional purchaser who shall have been in bona-fite residence for one whole year on land conditionally purchased dustry that the land a first such alternated by him by way of additional selection together with the land in respect of additional selection together with the land in respect which such additional selection was made, and the sail lands upon and after such alternation shall be held by the allence or allences, but no silence may so transfer the same until he lave been in bona-file residence as the same of the land spect of all purchase for all purchase for all purchase for all purchase for the land spect of the district, who shall register in a book to be kept by him for such purpose the part ulars of every allenation, and shall also formed such notice and particulars to the Minister for Land."

Mr. GARRETT moved that the following be inwest, and was agreed to.

tional selection was made, the following be inserted, 'notwithstanding such additional purchase may not have been held by him within such period.' The amendment was agreed to.

Mr. GARRETT moved that the following words be beverted after the words "provided that," "When as additional conditional purchases have been made the original conditional purchases and the such as amended was put and passed, as was also the following clause: "19, No silemation may be transferred on the sum conditions as above specified and that all such alimation." The insertion of the way of was then agreed to.

A verbal amendment was made, and the clause as amended was put and passed, as was also the following clause: "19, No silemation may be made of say land conditionally purchased by way of additional selection, under the twenty first and twenty-second settine of the Crown Lands Alienation Act of 1831, as a separate and distinct parcel of land from the land by virtue of the possession of which such land shall have been so emittionally purchased, unless and until all the conditions are requirements of the raid Act, or the sevenienth section of the American and performed as to such additional selection."

The following clause was then submitted — "20. The Governor may appoint a person as a commissioner, to whom shall be referred by the Minister decision of any conditional purchaser, or his aliense or submitted to a grant under the provisions of the elational section of the 'Orwan Lands Alienation Act of 1861, as every information or complaint to the Minister dupling as to residence or improvements on the Minister by any person entering convent or notice against the issue of any great to any conditional purchaser, or his aliense or alience, in out quality, or has not fulfilled the conditional as to residence or improvements on the land conditional, as to residence or improvements on the la

Mr. T. G. DANGAR seked for information relative to the commissioners.

Mr. GARRETT explained that the object of the clause was that examinations might to made on the spot intemplatine of conditional purchasers, and other matter requiring consideration. These could not be settled satisfactorily without the parties or nerend were inequally face to face before the examiner. We re a commissioner appointed here would be less likelihood of relectors attempting to impose upon the Government than there was under the present arrangement.

Mr. GARRETT said it was his intention to move a provise which would probably meet the views of the hon. gentleman.

On the metion of Mr. COHEN two verbal amandments were mide in the clause.

Mr. H. C. I AN GAR would like to have the words entitled, "for which any person may purchase by virtue of improvements, or at auction under the 8th and 2nd sections of the said Act respectively," with the view to inserting as a provise the following words, "provided that nothing herein contained shall prevent the said to any see person by virtue of improvements or at auction under the 8th and 22nd sections of the Alianation Act of any large area than 640 area."

Mr. GARRETT moved the omission of the words "or which any person may purchase by virtue of improvement at auction under the eighth and twenty-third sections of the said Act respectively," in order that Mr. Dagar night may the provision be suggested.

Mr. CHARLES moved the omission of the words "st inunded and fasty" socres, with a view to enbelliuse "twelve bundred and eighty" socres, as the maximum area that might be selected. He looked upon the present provision as class legislation, for "entirely shut out a person of mederate means from maxing a comfershab home for binnelf and his family. Except in a few favence post, where the land was of first-lesse quality, mer could so the crasing rights abolished. By giving this incressed area they would cashine a man to take up land on which he could support his family without asparating them, and by this means they would do away with the fails declarations that had been so much spoken of in our section with this Mill.

which he could support his family without separates them, and by this means they would do away with the false declarations that had been so much spoken of in on-nectice with this bill.

Mr. GARRETT felt it his duty to oppose this sumal-ment, (Hear, hear). The change was too sweeping instructure into a measure which was merely a heling measure to the present law. The hon, mamber proposed to do away with pre-leases, and that was a matter of too large policy for them to deal with at the present time. It thought such an extension of the area must carry with it the extinction of pre-leases, but he did not see that they were in a position to take that into consideration at the present time. It denied that the present bill would shat out the man of means, because he could purches at anotion as much land as he pleased. It denied the assection that the pre-leases were worthless. They were worth more than the requester's lease, because though say man could relect an a pre-lease, he could sall a pre-lease out of it. Then there was another advantage: the rent was fixed—leave was no reappreliaments of all descriptions, and would not only apply to free selections. (Hear, hear). He hoped the committee wars not prepared to adopt so aweeping change in principle that what the Government proposed. It was only a question of digree between 640 acres and 1280. As he understed it, the hom member for Kisma proposed, in view of this additional area to the free selector, to have the greening rights cancelled. These granting rights are should not entertain this proposal, for he had not heard any valid argument against it. It was only a question of degree between 640 acres and 1280. On the motion of Mr. Garager (for Mr. Robertson), it was resolved that the House at its rising this day Friday) do adjourn until Tuesday, the 26th instant. On the motion of Mr. Garager, leave was given to bring in a bill to authorise the resumption of certain dedicated Crown lands. The bill was brought up, and read a first time.

Several petitions were ordered to be printed.

On the motion of Mr. W. Forster, the Consolidated Fund Revenue Bill (No. 4) was read a second inte, considered in committee, and reported without an endments. The report was adopted by the House.

The Stranker announced that a message had been received from the Legislative Council forwarding the Innkespers' Liability Bill.

On the motion of Mr. Firetavers, the bill was read a first time.

The House then went into gommittee for the further cobsideration of the Lands Acts Amendment Bill.

The clause before the committee was clause 18, Additional conditional purchases may be alienated with original conditional purchases. This clause was amended in the 50th line by the insertion of these words:—"When no additional conditional purchases have been made, the original conditional purchases may be transferred on the same conditions as above specified, and that all such allexations.

The clause was then agreed to.

Clause 19, Additional purchases not to be transferred until improved and resided on.

The clause was werbally amended, and agreed to.

Clause 20, Power to appoint commissioner to inquire into charges against conditional purchasers. This clause was amended in the 12th line by the insertion of the words "in open Court," after the words "the commissioner shall hear." The clause, so smended, was agreed to.

Clause 8. Maximum area to be 640 acres. This clause, having been verbally amended at its commencement, was (on the motion of Mr. Ganarry amended, in the 35th line, by striking out the following words: "or which any person may purchase by virtue of improvements, &r at auction under the 8th and 25th section of the said Act respectively." This amendment was made with a view to adding a similar provise at the end of the clause, as suggested by Mr. H. C. Dangar.

After this

Mr. Charles proposed further to amend the clause, in line 40, by inserting the words "Twelve hundred and eighty," instead of "Six hundred and forty"—the number of acres of area proposed, in connection with this, to abandon the "grazing right.

Mr. Ganarry and Mr. Rossarrow opposed this roposed to double the maximum area as being expected to double the maximum area as being expected to the pastoral holdings.

Our thanks in the matter are certainly due to M. We trust that on all sides it may prove a success, and that those who have laboured in the matter will be able to find in that success the kind of reward which they most desire. In the spread of commerce everywhere that success the kind of reward which they most desire. In the spread of commerce everywhere we see a guarantee for additional enlightenment. We see the breaking down of prejudices, based on ignorance. We see the spread of that practical catholicity which treats the human race as one family, and which makes the bond of brotherhood felt by quickening the feeling of mutual obligation.

A PHILOLOGICAL PUZZLE.—At the meeting of a hore was taken up with the endeavour to procure a i was agreed, without difficulty, that the first should whate the clergyman, not a bishop, who might be spontament finally decided until he was consecrated.

But the term "collated," being novel to the ease of aumbers of the Synod, and quite innocent of any clear passing to the most learned of them, was at once chalsinged. It was explained that the meaning ascribed to it y the framer of the bill was the act of putting a prome who was alreedy a bishop, and therefore not in tion with some church or chapel to which aid could be given under Sir Richard Bourke's Act; and in accordance with the Prohibition Act, all payments must be discentinued as fast as the lives fall in to which stipends are attached. When the new Act became law, therefore, the total amount for the year 1863 to be placed at the credit of the four denominations, provided they could legally claim it for aervices rendered, was 128,000; and in accordance with the census of 1851, this amount was apportioned as follows:—To the Church of England, £14,634 6a. 5d.; to the Church of Rome, £8940 7s. 2d.; to the Presbyterian Church, £2852 15a. 1.d.; and to the Wesleyan Church, £1512 10s. 6d. There was also an untexpended balance to the credit of the fund amounting on the 30th December, 1862, to the sum of £6887 19s. 1d. as ainst which the denominations were permitted to draw under special arrangements of the Executive Council. In carrying out the Act, the first thing for the Government to ascertain was who were the ministers of religion "officiating under lawful authority," and while the Act was under consideration they submitted to Parliament a list obtained from the heads of the denominations, and dated July 30th, 1862. But between that date and the time when the Act became law, considerable alterations were made, and under these alterations the claim of the Rev. Denis M'Guinn has arisen. To test that claim we shall therefore require to examine these alterations to see how far they affect the case.

we shall therefore require to examine these alterations to see how far they affect the case.

Beginning with the Wealeyan Church, we notice that only four names appear on the list placed before Parliament, but in accordance with decisions of the Legislative Council, the whole amount credited to the Wesleyan Church for the year 1862 was distributed to twelve ministers of that denomination. Therefore, when the new Act took effect in 1863, all these twelve ministers were in receipt of Government stipends unless they had been superseded by competent authority. From the "Blue Book" of that year we learn that all except two of them were so superseded on the 1st of April, 1862; and the full amount due to the Wealeyan Church, together with their share of the unexpended balances of former years was allotted to ten ministers, lusted of the former twelve; eight off whom had been recently appointed. Whether the State or the Wealeyan Church has been the gainer by the change is not material to our present purpose. It is enough for us to remark that if the Wealeyan ministers who were paid in 1862, but afterwards superseded by their

An objection was issed during the debate to the effect that the tipenda attach to persons and not to places. hey attach to persons duly performing the appealed functions, and by Sir R. Bourke's Act the functions are connected with churches or chais in particular places at which a certain numer of residents signified their desire to attend, to stipends being graduated still in accordance with the original attendance. What guarantee coul the State have that the services for which it per are actually performed, unless the names sumitted by the heads of Denominations were assigned to particular Churches? A clergynin in receipt of a Government attpend must obin leave of absence, like every other civil serva; of the Crown on leaving the colony for a via home; he usually leaves on half pay, the other lif being paid to his substitute, and this fact i sufficient evidence that the pay of the State is spendent upon the actual performance of duty.

many liberal prime ought, if the object is to be attained by such indicements, to essist towards the raising of first-class horses.

Bickness and death are still prevalent in the district. In Dubbo and around it, a low fever and measies are dangerously prevalent. The death is announced of Mr. C. Tievor Bird, nephec of Mr. E. R. C. Bird, Jr., Wondobbis.

The station owners residing between Warren and Dubbo are having a memorial signed, asking for the establishment of a police station at Narramine, at Tumberabengis. There is no station between Dubbo and Warren, a distance of 80 or 90 miles; and the facilities for cattle-strating and other ordines are very great. It, no doubt, would greatly tend to the advancement of moralit and order if the wish of the memorialists were complied with.

The transactions in stock during the week have not been very large. Mr. T. Pittpatrick, of Guroov, has purchased a draft of fat cattle from Mr. P. M'Mahon, of the Casilorosaph-dalivery in June. Masers. Chaponan, of Regolabra have sold 150 head of fat cattle to Mr. A. Coulson, of Orange. Mr. W. J. Golding alsa purchased Baird and Ryrie's fat bullocks, shown at the late Enthibition. Mr. R. Helland's thoroughbred cattle, from the Murray, in charge of Mr. Dix, were met at Cagildry. Bogan River, by their owner and Mr. T. H. Smith (of Bernes and Smith, Richmond, River). They were all (70), with the exception of six, parchased by Mr. Smith at a good price. These cattle, which are Hereford and Devon, go to the Richmond at once.

GULGONG AND HOME RULE.

GULGONG AND HOME RULE.

[FROM OUR CORMERFONDENT]

THE less accounts from Malinson and party's claims at the Three-Mile—the best red open on this gold-field—are highly satisfactory. They are crushing another lot of stone, which promises as well as the least, and the red improves in quality and increases in width the deeper it is worked. They are erecting mothinery, and expect to be able to crush the stone on the spot in the course of a few weeks. All the adjoining ground for a considerable distance is taken up, and the population is increasing so rapidly that quite a township is rising. Malinson's party can new constantly employ about twenty men, and searching for the red is carried on outside their claim with great energy by numerous other parties.

The new from Tallewang is also so fer good that the miners are satisfied with their carnings, and have settled down for the winter. Payable gold has been struck in several fresh places, all of which have, in consequence, been readed, but no rich continuous lead has been discovered, nor does it seem likely at present there will be. The ground appears to be patchy, and the layer of wash-dist thin; but in some cases it gives an ounce to the lose, which is good, considering the depth of sinking is from nothing to 13 to 14 feet.

The Canadian, though so long worked, still boasts of some excellent claims. The dirt is poor, about 4 dwts. to the load, but the quantity is great, in some cases over 60 feet in thickness. As, of course, there is no loss of labour in raising mullock, an immense quantity is cheaply brought to grass, and thus the claims are made to pay well.

At Home Rule, the only item of news is a rush to a narrow steam of Greaterness land, ditusted between private well.

At Home Rule, the only item of news is a rush to a marrow piece of Government land, situated between private property on the Mudges Road, near Anderson's Haif-way Rouse. The prospectors' shaft is about 100 feet down and not yet hottomed; but, as the depth so much exceeds the embing in the immediate neighbourhood, it is thought a well-dailined gutter, which probably contains a regular land, will be struck. Many parties from Home Rule and wicknity are on the ground.

Actidents not unfrequently occur through the very reprehensible practice of leaving abandoned shafts open and unprotected, e-pacially mast puttie paths and highways, and a very stringent law is needed to check it. The logs usually left as a safeguard by the miners are almost always removed for firewood by people living near by, leaving a gaping hole level with the surface, which it is almost impossible to di-tinguish on a dark night. A miner named Carroll had a nerrow secure the other evening at lines times with the surface, which it is good to the surface, about 9 o'clock, perfectly sober, he fell of feet in one of these mantraps. Luckily he dropped feet formet without striking the sides, and luckily, as on, a thick deposit of roft mud received him at the bottom. But for these favourable circumstances he must have been killed or exversely ir jured. he way, however, recond without further hurt than a shock to the system.

MARRICKVILLE ROADS.

TO THE EDITION OF THE BEALD.

SIR.—If "A Constant Traveller" will take a walt along the Canterbury New Road he will see evidences of no elect in the part of the unincipal authorities which will, I am surre, astonish him-for that road, although the main entrance to the municipality, has not hid fively pauds expended upon it during the last ten years.

If he inquires of any alderman he will ascortain that the ratire district lying to the west of the Cock's River new Road (nearly half the nunicipality), from which rates smouthing to ever two thousand five hundred pounds have been received by the Council—besides the ordowment thereon—has not had two hundred pounds experded upon it since the incorporation of the borough; while on a road leading to the establishment of an alderman rinety pounds was expended last year, and I underestand a further large expenditure in contemplated for 1875.

NORWOOD.

THE OCCUPATION OF THE SOIL.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HEALD.

Sin — 'n yne leader of yesterday, you say, "According to the account given by Mr. Farnell, the consus rottens go to show that the rea end more than the rewessant percens in eccupation of the soil more than there were about the time when the Land Act came thin operation."

As explaining this, will you allow me to state the following facts: About 186 feeding rans was just beginning, and if has beenfroing on ever since. After the faunding of a station is completed, the I-bout wanted is greatly less, especially on sheep runs. A lot of 30 000 sheep under the shelp troing system, would require twenty to twenty diversing the meaning system, would require twenty to twenty the men; in bence the same number would not need more than five or six.

In consequence of the general extension of fencing, I think it may be safely said that there is only about one-third of the labour employed by the equation that there med to be fifteen years ago, and consequently many large tracts would be nearly depopulated but for the selectors.

The small increases of the thousand in the rarial population may therefore cover a very considerable grown of real settlement.
